In relation to Participant’s proposed Stanford-sponsored or Stanford-organized travel, Participant acknowledges that he/she has reviewed and understood the following:

- Stanford University International Travel Policy
- Information specific to my location of proposed travel at:
  - U.S. Department of State Travel Advisory

Participant further agrees that he/she will abide by Stanford’s University International Travel Policy, and that while on Stanford-sponsored or Stanford-organized trips he/she will not travel to countries or regions and locations within a country where the U.S. Department of State has issued an official Travel Advisory of Level 4 ("Do Not Travel") or Level 3 ("Reconsider Travel") for either the country destination, the particular region or location of intended travel within the country destination, or where there is other reliable information of significant health or safety risks.

While on a Stanford-sponsored or Stanford-organized trip, should a location’s U.S. Department of State Travel Advisory change during Participant’s travel to a Level 4 ("Do Not Travel") or Level 3 ("Reconsider Travel"), he/she will immediately take reasonable steps to remove himself/herself from that location, and will immediately contact the department, school, program or administrative office at Stanford that authorized, funded, sponsored or supported the travel.

Should Participant intentionally, knowingly or inadvertently travel to, or remain in a location that is disallowed under the Stanford University International Travel Policy, Stanford University retains the right to seek reimbursement of any funds, grants or resources expended on Participant’s behalf, as well as pursue any disciplinary action(s) that Participant may be subject to as a consequence of violating Stanford University policies.
